Giraffe COFFEE ROASTERS

When you meet one of the team from Giraffe, it's hard not to be completely caught up in their passion for coffee. These guys LOVE coffee and gosh do they know their stuff. Their number one focus (which aligns completely with us here at WKH) is quality. No second-rate beans here. Giraffe source their coffee from the best producers in the world, they support those who place value on environmentally friendly practices and authentic coffee culture. They value a completely transparent chain meaning priority is placed on traceability, quality and fair prices that give the farmers the futures they deserve.

It feels good to support independent businesses who share the same core values as ourselves and we hope that you can taste the difference in your cuppa.

For more information you can visit Giraffe's website at www.giraffecoffee.com

JING

JING are based in London and have set the bar really high for quality teas that taste like they should. They don't blend their teas from multiple origins meaning the integrity of the origin isn't lost, for you that means when you sip on a cup of their Jade Sword Green tea you'll feel like you could be sitting in the organic tea garden in Huaihua, China in which it was picked (if you close your eyes).

"The teas we source are not a commodity. They embody the quality of their origin and we pay the price they command. By sharing our passion for high quality origin tea, we provide a better tea experience for consumers and support skilled production. This provides higher returns for producers and their communities."

Edward Eisler, JING Founder
